My book is a varied and creatively entertaining combination, drawn on several styles of both poetry and prose. Hence, it tumbles together an assortment of freelance and also rhymed, metered poems. As well as essays on extremely differing topics, from the more deeply philosophical to the lighter and carefree, stricter to grammatical form or looser in conversational style. Throughout, I have strewn most with pictorial design, in sundry shades of coloring, black and white, and tepia, the arrangement of which I have fabricated. I designed it to bring senses of peace of mind, happiness, and fond desires for enjoyment of all kinds of existent states in the past, present, and future, in the reader. As the reader wanders through a wondrously fantastic and surrealistic adventureland of the kind of world we would all love to live in, which existed at random points, although it was centuries ago or beyond I was often depicting, and which we all still may, depending and depending only on just how vividly far our imaginations will take us, naturally. I challenge us all to believe in the wisdom of fairy tales and to be able to see that they can actually come true. To say yes to that magic carpet ride, and believe in advance how well we can hold on throughout the ride! Be it all at once for the charge! Or divided into separately delicious segmentation.
