Do you dream of visiting the magnificent Glacier or Yellowstone National Park, but are concerned about overcrowded park campgrounds? Consider one of the National Forest campgrounds that surround the national parks and from which you can visit a park and then retreat to an uncrowded and peaceful environment. Do you want to explore the ancient lands of the Sioux, Nez Perce and Flathead people or walk in the footprints of Lewis and Clark? If the answer is yes, then visit the national forests in Montana and northern Idaho. Whether you camp in a tent or a recreational vehicle (RV), there are campgrounds in U.S. National Forests to satisfy the needs of most campers. The U.S. National Forest Campground Guide, Northern Region, describes 176 developed campgrounds in 15 National Forests located in Montana and northern Idaho. All of the campgrounds were personally visited and researched by the authors of this Guide. There are more than 50 items of information for each campground, narrative descriptions (including the authors' anecdotes), maps displaying relative location of the campgrounds and quick look-up tables to help you select a campground and plan a travel route. In addition, there are sidebars throughout the Guide containing useful information about camping, the forests, things to do and the authors' experiences.
