Hung and Strung Wife Anne Hedonia

Who can judge a person's reactions during stress situations? The prisoners of war who give in to their captors' demands; the kidnapped heiress who joins forces with her abductors; all must act without past experience to guide them. All must make decisions in a vacuum, without benefits of familiar people or situations to guide them. The end result can be either a positive or a negative experience. In this story, Rachel Welch finds herself in just such a situation. Held captive by her tormentors, she not only meets their sexual demands but, to her horror, finds herself responding to them. Rachel is forced to indulge in acts that are not only forbidden by society, but also by her own moral code. HUNG AND STRUNG WIFE — a shocking story of a woman's reactions under tremendous stress. Yet who are we to judge her actions?
